“ You and I were together a long time big brother. We grew up together. From elementary school to our adult life, you were always in my corner through good times, bad times, and anytime I needed you. The world seems somewhat lonely without you and I have to admit you stuck closer to me than a brother. We shared laughter and we shared tears. Your loss has been tough but you have been granted your wings. I love you to the moon and beyond the heavens. Rest in peace Cedric💕💕

I don't think there was ever a time that I ran into Ced where he wasn't smiling, a trait that's hard to find upon many. And I know he'll be greatly missed. And my prayers are that God comfort his family and friends and strengthen us in our time of sorrow and grief. And continue to brace us..

“ Man, this one hurts. I'm not only going to miss the times we shared, but also the plans we talked about for the future. It's hard accepting something so unexpected, but I'm wise enough to know God only loans us to each other until He's ready to call us home. All I can do is trust His will, even when it doesn't make sense.

I'm going to miss you, man. I hate that it happened like this, but I'll always carry the memories with me.

Until we meet again — how 'bout them Cowboys and Roll Tide.

“ I was shocked and saddened to hear of Cedric's untimely passing. We were next door neighbors. Anytime Cedric would see Oreo (my pup) and I out walking in our neighborhood he would blow his horn on that red pick-up and wave. It didn't matter if it was 5:00 a.m. or 8:00 p.m.,... he would always blow and wave. Most recently he told me that they were planning a get-together later this month for several family member birthdays. You could tell he was so excited and he just wanted to give me a heads up and said "You can come over if you want to". I thought that was so nice of him. I guess many of us needed an extra guardian angel in heaven and didn't even know it. Fly high my neighbor and friend....until we meet again
