“ Georgia was there for me when I was a rebellious and vulnerable teen. I remember many evenings sitting on the porch swing talking about life and drinking sweet tea. She spoke truth to me even when it hurt. I listened to her at a time when I wouldn't listen to anyone else. Her advice was always on point. She gave me hope and unconditional love. She gave me a place to live when I was too Young to be on my own but too stubborn to stay home where I belonged. She gave my mother peace of mind knowing I was only a few houses down the road. I remember her and Blair visiting me and my little ones before moving back home to Alabama and knowing how much I would miss them. I am forever grateful for the way Georgia took me in and loved me all those years ago and for the example that both her and Blair were to me. They are in part the reason I am who I am today. I love you both. My prayer is that God would give peace and comfort during this time of such great loss and that your tears would soon turn to joy in knowing that one day we will all see each other again!
