“ I don't know Gods reasoning for things & nor do I want too, but I know he gave me these couple weeks with you, here to be able to see you & love on you before you were called home. You are so incredibly intelligent. & had so many dreams. He wanted to be either an engineer or an architect. He wanted to go to school in Germany. He was studying the Russian language. He loved animals & they loved him right back. I know this past year was hard for you, in many different ways babey boy, but I seen a side of you when you were here that let me know that you were raised with love, and taught morals, and you knew how to show compassion. You taught Bentley so much in the short time we had with you. I feel like a piece of my soul is shattered, and I know this pain will never leave, but I will try to remember the good things. Like your sweet gummy smile as a babey, or the way you used to just speak jibberish as a little buddy, or you just kicked back in bed with all the animals. You lifting nova up to the sky to show her the birdies, the way you'd get Harley all riled up just to laugh at her. The intellectual conversations we had. I miss you so much, and I keep going over everything I said when you went back and wondering if there was something I could've said differently... I love you, and I have loved you well before I even knew what you were going to be. We all did. I promise to look for you in the little things every single day. I promise to hold you in my heart & never let you go. I hope you stick close to me & your grandma & granpa & aunt & uncle & siblings in this time of grief & get us through the worst of it. Wrap those big beautiful wings around us & guide us towards better days.

I love you always Isaac Lee Carter Knapp ☐☐☐

“ I got to see you one more time today, it doesn't get easier bud... I have been thinking about all the times we shared together and how tight we were. I watch you grow up at 15, just to lose you at 30, 15 short years later... I will never watch you get your diploma, drive your first car, or see you at your first job... but I got 15 amazing years with you, everywhere I went you were there... my best friend, buddy, and like my first child... you made me the mom I am today, and that's the best I can be. I will hold you so close to my heart... I love you my sweet angel.

May you find peace in heaven, as you lay to rest my angel.

May the aunt and nephew bound stay strong! I love you and can't say it enough for you will always be my only nephew, and first love “ im so happy that we met when we did. the memories that we created in a short amount of time will forever be in my brain. i will never forget anything. The phone calls hours on end, the laughs and most importantly.. "hii". You made me feel so loved and cared for and you always made sure that i felt it. I pray that you are okay and you know that i love you. Forever.

I'd love to send prayers to the family and friends, I knew Issac from school he was a great kid and was one of the nicest people I've ever met, I didn't know him for long but just in that short of time he showed me how there truly are still good people out there and gave me a little more faith in the world.

I just wanted to say I'm sending my prayers to Isaac's family and friends I knew him for a short time due to him moving schools again but in the short time I knew Isaac he was a great kid and showed me there is still good in this world and he was lost a such a young age its a terrible feeling knowing he didn't get to experience his future but I hope everyone is doing well
