“ I am so lost Mama. I miss you terribly. I just can't seem to get it together. You are my go to and now you are gone. I do not know where to turn or what direction to go in. I'm turning in circles trying to do the right thing and I am questioning every move. I still need you so much Mama. My heart hurts terribly and I can't stop the pain. I love you and I miss you so.

“ Please pray for me and my family as tomorrow is going to be a very difficult day as we say good bye to our sweet precious mother, grandmother, great grandmother and friend. I sure miss be able to talk to my mama. I loved our precious time together. I would love to hear her voice one more time, sit with her and really cherish the moments and good times we had but it's too late for that. Time is so precious and short but we don't realize it until we lose someone we love. Mama was always there for me no matter what! I loved that my mama was always honest and supportive. I can't imagine doing life without her!! I miss the family beach trips, laughs and just being goofy together. I will never get over this pain as a piece of me is forever gone. My mom has been through a lot these past two years but she never gave up through all the pain and suffering. I just hope I am half the woman that my sweet mama was. Mama I know you loved your family more than words can express. I just hope you know how much your children, grand children and great grand children loved you! In the hospital you told me to tell all your children how so very much u loved them, well I did. I hope you are proud of how things go tomorrow as we sure tried to honor your wishes but nothing seems good enough for our sweet precious mama. I as so jealous of the angels as I am missing you more than you can imagine. Dad is having a difficult time without you as you were married for almost 60 years. We will do our best to take care of daddy ,Todd and each other but of course we will not be able to do as good of a job as you did! I know you are with Jesus and no longer in pain and that is the only thing that comforts me. Just remember I love you most of all.

“My sweet Mammaw. My biggest supporter. The one who always encouraged me to chase my dreams and travel the world. She most definitely gave me her sass and spunk & set an example for me to use my voice and passion for good. I admired her love for humans and animals (and mustangs). My day was made when she let me drive her beautiful STANG around town...I felt like such a cool diva with the top down. I will always cherish the girl weekend shopping trips that we took when I was young...and all the weekends we spent by the pool with cousins learning how to swim. I'll never forget when Mammaw would get on to the men for throwing us into the pool too hard, although we were laughing and begging to do it again. I also remember Mammaw telling us we could have butterfly tattoos just like her if we just let them land on us by the pool. The only catch was we had to be quick enough to stick them to us. (LOL)

Most importantly, I always admired her and my PAPA's marriage...their commitment of almost 62 years. They provided me an example and a standard of what I want for my future spouse/marriage. A standard that will never allow me to settle. They never said it was always easy, but their love for one another & their family made every day worth it. My Mammaw said 'Home is where your heart is' and my Mammaw's heart was wherever my sweet Papaw was...from England to Ohio, South Dakota, Alabama (and more). Their love set examples and traveled all over this world.

I LOVE our big family & I hope to keep our family traditions going... and to someday start a big family of my own. I can't wait to tell my future kids how absolutely AMAZING their great Mammaw was.

I love you so much Mammaw & I already miss you more than you could ever imagine. I will miss sending you pictures of all my adventures & for all the special birthday wishes you posted every year. I'll always look for every hummingbird and butterfly in memory of you. Guide us when we need you the most. Until we meet again my beautiful angel.

I love you !!!!

“ If you were down for a good time she was too and if you ever needed to be talked into doing something, she was the perfect person to go to. She has always supported how different my style was and told me if she wasn't "old and wrinkly" she would have got her eyebrow pierced with me! She even tried to talk my mom into letting me do it while I was underage. She stayed young at heart and was always so welcoming with her home. One Thanksgiving she let a stranger in her home, I was the only one who really knew him, and she treated him like family. Til this day he still talks about how much he loves my family. Mamaw even supported his bad habit of dipping! There's nothing more I regret then you not being able to my son, I should of just showed up at your door step because there was no way you were going to turn away "the cutest baby in the world." And yes those were always her words about him. I could keep going forever but it's time to wipe these tears drizzling down my face because today is not a day to be sad. It is a day to be thankful God blessed every single one of us with you. It is a day to be thankful that your no longer suffering or hurting and you are now in the most beautiful place that we, on earth, can only imagine. Today is to celebrate you and all the oh so sweet sweet memories you left behind with us. I love you mamaw. Papaw and Todd are in good hands and we all gained a guardian angel.

“ My sweet precious mama loved her family beyond words. My daddy and mama have been married for 59 years, would have been 60 years in November. Wow what an inspiration for love and marriage! My mama has 5 children, 14 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren. I will always cherish the time we had together but sure wish we had more time. Time is precious and short which we do not realize until we lose someone we love. Spend time with the people you love because it is never enough! I loved holidays at my mamas as we always had a house full of people and love. Holidays and life will not be the same without my sweet precious mama. I will miss the family beach trips but I will cherish the memories forever. My mama sure loved the beach and the sun. I know my mama is with Jesus but I am jealous of the angels as I sure miss her. I know mama is dancing with the angels now. I can't imagine life without mama. My mama has dealt with a lot in the past two years. Most people would have given up but not my mama. She was a strong lady and she sure was a fighter until the end. I pray my mama realizes how so very much she was loved. We are lost without her. We will do our best to take care of daddy, Todd and each other but I know we will not be able to do it as good as mama did. She was a selfless, spunky lady. She was a kind hearted, trust worthy and a honest person. My mama gave to multiply charities as she always thought of others over herself. She was always wanting to help people who were less fortunate. My mama also loved animals and donated to the animal shelter. What an amazing woman she was! I loved talking with my mama, sure wish I could talk to her just one more time. If you asked for my mamas advice you better be ready for the truth. She would not tell you what you wanted to hear as she would tell you the truth! I loved that about her! So when you asked her advice you better suck it up buttercup because you were going to get it! The only thing that comforts me is knowing my Mama is with Jesus and is no longer in pain. So you dance mama as you have always loved to do! Remember that I love you most of all. We all know how so very much you loved us! I am so blessed that God choose you to be my mama!

“I See the Moon” song

by Meredith Willson

Chorus

*Over the mountain, over the sea,
Back where my heart is longing to be,
Please let the light that shines on me
Shine on the one I love.*

*I see the moon; the moon sees me
Down through the leaves of the old oak tree.
Please let the light that shines on me
Shine on the one I love.*

*I hear the lark; the lark hears me,
Singing a song with a melody.
Please let the lark that sings for me
Sing for the one I love.*

*I kiss a rose; the rose kisses me,
Fragrant as only a rose can be.
Please let the Rose that comforts me
Comfort the one I love.*

My Mama sang this to all of my Babies. When we would have to leave her house to head home she would point out the moon and sing it. We always waited as late as possible to leave Mamas house. Then she would hug and kiss them. I love you Mama. I will always see the moon.

“ My Mammaw was a beautiful and loving woman. She’s the best grandmother anyone could ask for and I’m so grateful to have been her granddaughter. My favorite memory I have, is being her pen pal my entire life. Since I was old enough to write we have written letters back and forth (we even had secret code names when I was little in case someone accidentally got our mail). I still have all of those letters and will cherish that memory for the rest of my life. The world isn’t the same without you in it Mammaw, Rest In Peace. I love you so much.

“ It is with great sadness that I find myself posting this. Mammaw was a truly remarkable woman. I have witnessed her strength for 35 years. If you want to know who she was just look to her son, Todd. The endless dedication and selflessness she showed to make his life great. Todd is the same age I am, at 53. Most of us parents stop day to day care of kids at 18. She never took a day off in 53 years. You can also see her strength in her two daughters. I’ve already known it passed to them for years now. However in the wake of this tragic loss, I can tell you Mammaw must be beaming with pride. These two daughters have handled this with the strength and resilience of their mother. Personally I will miss having that person in my life that would be that blatantly honest with me always. If you asked this beautiful lady a question, you better buckle up and brace for the truth. Such a trait so needed more in this world today. I know we will have the opportunity to see her again in heaven. I pray the Lord keep her and give the strength of faith to all of us who suffer her loss here on earth.
