“ i remember when mama brought the twins home with bandages on each one legg mama said baby twin was born with a defect on his leg and they had to take some of oldest twin skin off his leg to cover the spot because oldest twin was so big from eating all the food from the the baby twin (i was about 5 years and laughed so hard then)i went to see him 5 days in a row last week and when i got ready to leave to go to work he said "i love you" and it took me back because of our childhood we dont say it often so i said "huh" and he sad it again "i love you" and i said" i love you too baby" and at that moment my whole world changed because i knew he wanted me to know that he loved me just in case he didnt get a chance to tell me
