“Becky was the first person I met when my son and I visited First Presbyterian Church 34 years ago. At that time, I was reluctant to “be known”, sliding in the back row just as the service started, and leaving as soon as it was over. Somehow, she found out who I was, and would call me, not being pushy, but saying she had seen me, and hoped that I would let her know if she could help in any way, and she hoped I would return. At that time, that was all that I wanted. Gradually, she drew me into the family of First Presbyterian, and we worked together in a number of ways. She was always an upbeat, positive, energetic person, whether she was dressed as a fairy with her magic wand, playing her flute, singing in the choir (at one time, there were only three altos ... all short!), playing the hand chimes, displaying her artwork in many ways at Bible School, etc. She visited our home several times, spending a delightful night with us once. Although we have not been in close contact the past few years, I have thought of her often, and followed her ministry progress. Although she was short in stature (one of the reasons I adored her from the start, because she was one of the few adults shorter than me!), she was big of heart and her Christian faith. The world has lost a treasure, but she is walking the streets of gold with Jesus. What joy that is! I love you, Becky!

“ Becky was a remarkable woman of faith. She brightened every space she entered with her cheerful countenance and encouraging words. She truly loved the Lord and was a winsome witness to God's love and grace. The Presbytery of Sheppards and Lapsley is diminished in her absence and our prayers are with all the family in this sad time. We share your sorrow even as we entrust Becky to God's closer and eternal care.
