“ Robin walked into my life in Chapman Kansas. Greg and Robin had just moved to town. I struck up a conversation with her. I instantly knew she was not from Kansas, the southern accent gave it away. How I loved to hear her speak and laugh. We had so many great times. I learned of her family members. I'm sorry to say I have never met any of you. I was always going to go to Alabama, to see her, I only wish I had. I believe, Robin left a piece of her heart in Kansas.

Robin blamed me for her love of quilting. You see, I talked her into taking a quilting class, with me. This one class, turned into many. Robin and I became great friends. I also, introduced her into quilt Shop Hops. In-case you don't know what these are, quilter's travel from one quilt shop to another collecting usually, a quilt block/pattern for a quilt. After you have hit all the shop's, you should have enough blocks for a quilt. Well Robin, and I would usually have a trunk full of fabric and many great ideas for new quilts. We always said, the one with the most fabric wins!

There was nothing Robin would not do for a friend. She was very talented/loving and giving.

We have a quilt shop in Chapman and the owner was Gilda Marshall. The three of us spent many Friday nights sewing, till one or two in the morning. Every day/night when we parted, we always said, "Love ya Later", it was never goodbye. We did many projects together for fund raisers. We also worked on our own projects. Gilda's health was failing. As a great friend, Robin stepped in and helped run the Quilt Shop. Robin and I purchased fabric's and did the books for the shop. Before Gilda passed on, I drove to Salina to the hospital and we held hand's because neither one of us was ready to let Gilda go.... It breaks my heart to know that Robin is gone. I have so many things I wanted to tell her and share. I believe her and Gilda are in heaven "Shop Hopping" and quilting. When I last spoke to Robin, my last words to her was "Love ya Later".
