“ Teddy and I were best friends throughout high school and beyond. We both played trumpet until he had braces and we were in DeMolay a masonic organization where we enjoyed being junior masons and made friends and had work and fun together. Teddy was always quick with a smile and a joke. We would go on double dates together and sometimes skip school and once we got caught which was the most trouble we were ever in. Mainly we had good fun with friends. When Teddy went into the service and married we stayed in touch and later we all ended up living in Denver where we continued our friendship. He had a son, Nathan, which he adored and we had many good times together. A few years later we both moved away from Colorado and lost touch with one another until Facebook came along and we slightly stayed in touch. It is a shame and with great sadness that god has taken him and we won't be able to share humor and old times again. Teddy was a fun loving and caring person who will be greatly missed.

Farewell my old friend.

“ Too many happy times with Ted. "Family night" for one--that's when Ted and Benny invited me over for dinner and to watch a movie on TV. Sitting on the couch Benny fell asleep on my left side, and when I turned to my right to tell Ted, he was also asleep. I watched the movie, turned off the TV and quietly left. No better times than St Patrick's Day in Savannah. I could go on and on. Thanks for being my friend Ted. Benny, Fran and I are a phone call away.
